DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments, filed 8/17/2010, have been fully considered. Rejections and/or objections not reiterated from previous office actions are hereby withdrawn. The following rejections and/or objects are either reiterated or newly applied. They constitute the complete set presently being applied to the instant application.

New Grounds of Rejection

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 0172290 (WO '290; document already in record) in view of US 5656289 ('289) in further view of US 5422125 ('125). WO '290 teaches a sustained-release preparation comprising a dipeptidyl peptidase IV inhibitor and a pharmaceutically acceptable carrier, such as a cellulose polymer (page 6, line 8 to page 7, line 18). Hydroxymethylcellulose is explicitly taught (page 7, line 6). The dipeptidyl peptidase IV inhibitor is a hypoglycemic agent and the preparation is used for treatment of diabetes (see abstract).

WO '290 fails to teach incorporation of 5-90 wt% of hydroxypropyl cellulose or hydroxypropylmethyl cellulose as the pharmaceutically acceptable carrier.

'298 and '125 teach that hydroxypropylcellulose and hydroxypropylmethyl cellulose are common celluloses used as pharmaceutical carriers for diabetes medications ('298: abstract; col 14, line 3 and '125: abstract; col 5, lines 1-2).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate 5-90 wt% of hydroxypropyl cellulose or hydroxypropylmethyl cellulose as these polymers are common celluloses used as pharmaceutical carriers for diabetes medications. As the cellulose acts as a carrier, the range to be explored is 0-100 wt%, and one would reasonable envision low weight percentages, such as around 5 wt% and 10 wt%, and high weight percentages, around 80 wt% and 90 wt%, and weight percentages in between. Starting from possible 0 to 100 wt%, it would have been obvious to find 5-90 wt% and 10-80 wt% through routine experimentation to improve the efficacy of the formulation in treating diabetes. "[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation.' In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955)" MPEP § 2144.05, II. Instant claim 21-23 recite that the sustained-release preparation is capable of decreasing dipeptidyl peptidase IV activity by certain amounts over certain times. The formulation made obvious by WO '290 in view of '289 and '125 is structurally identical to the formulation of claim 1: it comprises a dipeptidyl peptidase IV inhibitor and hydroxypropyl cellulose or hydroxypropylmethyl cellulose in 5-90 wt%. Accordingly, it will inherently exhibit the same pharmaceutical effects as claim 1. In other words, as the formulation that is made obvious by WO '290 in view of '289 and '125 is structurally identical to claim 1, it must inherently be capable of decreasing dipeptidyl peptidase IV activity in the manner disclosed in instant claims 21-23. "[T]he discovery of a previously unappreciated property of a prior art composition, or of a scientific explanation for the prior art's functioning, does not render the old composition patentably new to the discoverer.' Atlas Powder Co. v. Ireco Inc., 190 F.3d 1342, 1347, 51 USPQ2d 1943, 1947 (Fed. Cir. 1999). Thus the claiming of a new use, new function or unknown property which is inherently present in the prior art does not necessarily make the claim patentable. In re Best, 562 F.2d 1252, 1254, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977)." MPEP § 2112, I.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
